

Echo Rectangular Dining Table

Tom found inspiration for this geometric dining table on a trip to the Arctic. He was struck by the landscape's stark beauty, with its sheer rock faces and vast swathes of ice. In Echo, he moulded these qualities into a modern rectangular dining table, composed of angular metalwork and crystalline glass. The precise folds in the base are captivating from all angles, producing a sculptural and distinctly contemporary effect. For a bespoke dining table, simply let us know your preferred dimensions and select one of our standard finishes for the base. To take an in-depth look at how to select the right dining table size for your space, we'd suggest referring to our guide.
